

Essay writing mistakes

Unlike tests, essays do not assume a multiple-choice format (when you are offered several answers to choose from). Essay writing is not limited in time, you can rewrite it many times, ask friends to read your essay, or even ask them to write my essay for me cheap. Take advantage of all the opportunities and try to avoid common mistakes.

Bad check.

Don't feel like you can just check your spelling. Re-read your essays and make sure there are no ambiguous expressions, bad phrases, etc. Examples that should not be "noted":

"I am proud to be able to resist the use of drugs, alcohol, tobacco."

"Working for your firm (organization) located in a wonderful place with a lot of Gothic architecture will be an e

Tedious prefaces. Not enough parts.

Too often, an interesting essay fails in listing statements without illustrating them with examples. Essays are characterized by the usual clichés: the importance of hard work and perseverance, learning from mistakes, etc.

Verbosity.

Essays are limited to a certain number of words, so you need to use this volume wisely. Sometimes this means giving up some ideas or details, especially if they have already been mentioned somewhere or are not directly related to the case. Such things only distract the attention of the reader (listener) and obscure the main topic of the essay.

Long phrases.

The longer the sentence, the better, some candidates say. However, this is far from the truth. Long phrases do not yet prove the author is right, and short sentences often have a greater effect. It is best when in the essay long phrases alternate with short ones. Try reading the essay out loud. If you feel that you are holding your breath, break the paragraph into smaller paragraphs.

When you're done writing your essay, do this exercise. Give each paragraph a letter: either S (short), M (medium), or L (long). S - less than 10 words, M - less than 20 words, L - 20 or more words.

The correct essay has the following or similar letter order - M S M L M S.

An incorrect essay characterizes such a sequence of letters - S S S M L L L.

Don't overload your essay.

When writing an essay, discard words from encyclopedias. The incorrect use of such words distracts the reader's attention, diminishes the meaning of the essay.

By avoiding such common mistakes, you can interest the expert committee (employer) with your experience.